

A Poem for My Friends

A poem by Rolf, Virgil, and God

June 4, 2011

The positive affirming of one's friendships
Ensures certainty of renewal of one's spirits.

Kindred spirits always find ways to approve of each other's good humour – that's the proof.

From each other's conversations we always learn
How noteworthy respect for each other is earned.

The more conscientious that a person is
The easier to concentrate on who isn't His.

If one can reconcile oneself with one's destiny
The easier it becomes to restrain one's hostility.

A true sign of friendship is to help each other
To prepare and make ready to greet one another.